Neutrinos Have Mass

Neutrinos are emitted by stars and travel through the universe at near the speed of light. They penetrate us and everything else by the trillions per square inch every second, without being slowed down. The Human Design System is based on the premise that they have mass and therefore change and are changed by the bodies they penetrate. The Neutrino stream, altered by the planets, is the ongoing conditioning program, the basis for what is calculated and displayed in the various Rave charts.

So far, this has been an assumption, confirmed only by individual experience of the truth of Human Design, but not by science. A few research projects to measure neutrinos have been in progress. Recently, an international consortium of 120 scientists announced that neutrinos are indeed different after passing through a planet (using Earth as the test object). Leaving, they oscillate, entering, they don't, proof that they get changed, and therefore, have mass.

Neutrinos Through Windows 1.6

The Neutrinos Through Windows computer program is now available again for participants of the Basic training. The update has been streamlined and options that produced questionable results are removed or corrected. It now also prints symbols to indicate lines fixed by planets.

When you make Rave calculations, it is necessary to own and know how to use the ACS Atlases (to look up the time zones for the birth location), either in the form of books (two heavy volumes) or as a PC program.

On Emotional Authority

Excerpt from the new audio tape set Ra Uru Hu: Authority

When you look at composites of two people together, you'll discover that the vast majority of all partnerships are emotional. Now think about the chaos and pain that we have in our relationships. The moment that we come together in any bonding, most of us automatically become emotional. Therefore, the authority for almost every relationship on Earth is Solar Plexus authority. When you're together with your lover, you have Solar Plexus authority that's almost for certain guiding your relationship. There are exceptions, obviously. But the vast majority are emotional. In other words, it's not simply a matter of the emotional people walking around, but the recognition that working in an office, working with others, having your lover in your life, the chances are, that you're always dealing on some level or another with the power of the Solar Plexus system to define decision-making in your life.

So when you're dealing with the Solar Plexus in a relationship, you have to see what that's saying about our relationships to each other: It takes time to find love. It's always going to take time. It's so important to recognize that. Very few relationships are ever going to be Splenic, that the love exists in the now or not. Almost all relationships are going to end up in the emotional field.

Whether you have Solar Plexus definition or not, you have to recognize what it means to wait. When you have a relationship with somebody, you have to see that you cannot jump, that you have to have enough time to find clarity in your relationship because otherwise it will not work. And the joke is, for the vast majority of relationships, there is no truth in the now. We have all kinds of relationships that are rooted in insecurity, because there is no truth in the now and no recognition that why you're with somebody, is so that you can share your knowing of each other. The depth of that knowing comes through the beauty of what the emotional system is about. It brings depth into our lives. When you wait, you get to see the things you feel and care about in a unique clarity because you get the perspective over time.

The fact is, the Solar Plexus system is the ultimate authority in a Design, and it's also the ultimate authority on the planet. ■

Special Taos Event

The Centers tape set recording was not as good as it could be, but since it is such a valuable introduction tape set for newcomers and students alike, we've been offering it as a good beginning for understanding the dynamics of a Rave chart. Upon the request for another chance to re-record this lecture, Ra agreed to give it again. It will be in Taos on September 29 at 7:00pm. The price for the evening is $50. Participants of the 384-Lines class may attend this evening free of charge.

Another Audio Tape Set

The Authority in the Rave is the topic for the latest educational tape set. (See the transcribed excerpt in this newsletter.) Ra details how to see the authority in a person's Design and how it works. The material is rated Advanced, meaning that the class presupposes familiarity with Human Design and at least the equivalent of Basic training information.
